I. INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY

Defendants Greg Mortenson and MC Consulting, Inc. (collectively, the “Defendants”) hereby oppose Plaintiffs’ Motion for Preservation of Documents (the “Motion”) [Dkt. No. 42] and their supporting Brief [Dkt. No. 43]. All of the parties to this litigation have an existing obligation to preserve documents. Absent a predicate showing of wrongdoing, a court order is inappropriate. While the Plaintiffs have not made a predicate showing, they have resorted to unsupported rhetoric that does not, and should not, give rise to the relief Plaintiffs have requested.

Even if the Court were inclined to issue a preservation order, the Court should not use the proposed order submitted by Plaintiffs (the “Proposed Order”) [Dkt. No. 43-1]. Not only was it submitted in violation of Local Rule 7.1(c)(3), it is not even handed and is written as if the Court had found wrongdoing on the part of all defendants.

For the reasons set forth below, the Defendants respectfully request that the Court deny the Plaintiffs’ Motion.

II. RELEVANT BACKGROUND

Plaintiffs’ action stems from the writing and publication of the books Three Cups of Tea and Stones into Schools, which were published by Penguin Group (USA) Inc. The lawsuit makes factual allegations that the books contain misstatements, and that Mortenson repeated some of those orally, though the defendants represented the books as being accurate.

Plaintiff Reinhart filed her initial Complaint in this matter on May 5, 2011. [Dkt. No. 1]. She then filed a First, Second and Third Amended Complaint, adding and deleting parties and claims, on May, 11, 2011, June 17, 2011 and July 27, 2011, respectively [Dkt. Nos. 3, 17 & 38]. Shortly after filing the fourth version of the complaint, Plaintiffs filed the instant Motion and Brief on August 3, 2011.

In the nearly 4 months between the initial complaint and the Motion, none of the defendants filed any substantive motions or pleadings in this case because none were due or required. Responsive pleadings to the Third Amended Complaint were not even required until August 8, 2011. See Order [Dkt. No. 37]. Plaintiffs point to nothing in those intervening 4 months that would give rise for the need for the relief they requested.<sup>1</sup>

Thus, at the time Plaintiffs filed their Motion and Brief, none of the defendants in this case had filed any documents taking any substantive position in this case. Nevertheless, Plaintiffs made the following unwarranted and unsupported accusation against all of the defendants on page 3 of their Brief:

<sup>1</sup> On August 5, 2011, the Defendants filed their Motion to Dismiss Plaintiffs' Third Amended Complaint and supporting Memorandum. [Dkt. Nos. 47 & 48]. The other defendants filed similar motions and memoranda on August 8, 2011 [Dkt Nos. 51, 52, 56 & 57]. Therein, the defendants exercised their rights to ask this Court to dismiss the complaints for failure to state cognizable claims, as permitted under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6).

4. The Defendants' conduct and their blatant refusal to recognize their culpability and compensate those who have been damaged raises serious questions regarding future conduct they may take in this matter.

Plaintiffs imported this ugly rhetoric into Montana, as well as nearly their entire "Brief," from the now-dismissed copycat litigation filed by Plaintiff Netter in the District Court for the Northern District of Illinois. See Motion for Preservation of Documents at 2, ¶ 4, Netter v. Mortenson, No. 11-03915 (N.D. Ill. June 9, 2011) [Dkt. No. 5].

Plaintiffs have not shown, nor could they show, that Defendants have engaged in any activity that would support the relief they now request.

III. PLAINTIFFS' MOTION IS INAPPROPRIATE

The Ninth Circuit has long held that all parties to litigation have a duty to preserve evidence without the presence of a court order. See Leon v. IDX Sys. Corp., 464 F.3d 951, 959 (9th Cir. 2006). For Plaintiffs to request an order directed only at the defendants based solely on inflammatory rhetoric, without evidence of a predicate wrong, is inappropriate.

Parties to a civil action in federal court are under a duty to preserve evidence that they know is relevant or reasonably could lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. This obligation, backed by the court's power to impose sanctions for the destruction of such evidence, is sufficient in most cases to secure the preservation of relevant evidence. Before additional measures to preserve evidence are implemented, there must be some showing that there is reason for the court to be concerned that potentially relevant evidence is not being preserved and that the opposing party may be harmed as a result.

Young v. Facebook, Inc., No. 5:10-cv-03579-JF/PVT, 2010 WL 3564847, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 13, 2010) (emphasis added) (citing Leon, 464 F.3d at 959 and Jardin v. Datallegro, Inc., No. 08-cv-1462-IEG-RBB, 2008 WL 4104473, at *1 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 3, 2008)); see also Scott v. Nerio, No. C06-5340RJB, 2007 WL 1795558, at *1 (W.D. Wash. June, 20 2007)).<sup>2</sup>

Moreover, where a question has been raised as to whether the plaintiff has stated a cognizable claim, as here, granting a motion to preserve documents is premature. See Hall v. McAlister, No. 1:10-cv-01426 OWW JLT (PC), 2010 WL 4068714, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 15, 2010) (“at this early stage of the litigation, the Court declines to entertain any requests for the preservation of alleged evidence”).

Not only have Plaintiffs failed to provide the Court with any evidence that the Defendants would or have destroyed any documents, they neglect to cite any <sup>2</sup> See also Johnson v. Procter & Gamble Co., No. 07-C-0159-C, 2007 WL 1319274, at *1 (W.D. Wis. Apr. 25, 2007) (denying plaintiff’s motion to preserve evidence in a potential class action and multidistrict litigation because the “court presumes that the defendants and their attorneys already are aware of and will comply with their discovery obligations in this case and the others . . . [and] mere[] outlines . . . of alleged bad acts by some of the defendants and their agents, none of law in their Motion or in their Brief to support their request for relief.

Finally, Plaintiffs submitted a proposed order in contravention of the local rule only permitting proposed orders “with a motion for extension of time or with an unopposed motion.” See L.R. 7.1(c)(3). The Proposed Order is written in a manner to suggest that the Court has already concluded the presence of bad behavior, when nothing of the sort has been demonstrated. For example, the Proposed Order provides that defendants should be prevented from destroying any document relating or relevant to its [sic] practice of falsely advertising, marketing, promoting, selling and distributing Three Cups of Tea and Stones into Schools as true stories and non-fiction . . .

Proposed Order at 1. While the Defendants do not engage in such a practice in the first instance, the very language Plaintiffs propose for the order assumes too much.

Moreover, Plaintiffs’ obligations are noticeably missing from the Proposed Order. Yet, they are subject to the same existing obligation to preserve as are the defendants. See Young, 2010 WL 3564847 at *1; Leon, 464 F.3d at 959 (“Parties to a civil action in federal court are under a duty to preserve evidence that they know is relevant or reasonably could lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.”) (emphasis added). Plaintiffs provide no explanation for why they should be exempt from such an order. Plaintiffs' failure to include themselves in the Proposed Order speaks more to advocacy than fairness. More simply, the Court need not issue an order given the existing obligation imposed upon all parties to this case.

which suggest that the defendants have engaged in or will engage in the spoliation of evidence” are not sufficient).

IV. CONCLUSION

The Defendants are fully aware of their obligation to preserve their documents; an obligation that exists without a court order. There is no basis to issue the order Plaintiffs are requesting. Should any party to this action have information that another party is destroying or has destroyed relevant documents, then it would be appropriate to file or renew a request for an order preserving documents or to request other appropriate relief. Until that time, the Court should discourage the unsupported rhetoric Plaintiffs employed and deny the Motion.
